

Of course you have your shoes repaired—you know you can get a good deal of additional service from them after the first sole is worn out.

But how do you have it done? By the ordinary cobbler's method?

If you do, your experience has undoubtedly shown you how unsatisfactory this method is. You most likely get inferior materials and clumsy workmanship. Besides this, the usual method of "tapping"—that is, piercing the sole midway in the shank—gives the shoe a decidedly unsightly look.

Then, again, the nails sometimes used by the cobbler cause no little discomfort to the foot. They are driven clear through to the inside of the shoe and are clinched on the inner sole.

So, when the cobbler hands you your shoes, they look like the photo below, don't they?

THE ORDINARY WAY OF HALF-SOLE REPAIRING

THE "REGAL WAY" OF REPAIRING SHOES

NOW, take the "Regal Way": First, the work is done by expert shoemakers, using just the same methods by which the first soles were attached at the Regal factories. The old, worn-out sole and heel are removed. A new sole of genuine Oak-Bark tanned leather is sewed on. Bear in mind that this sole is complete—it extends from toe to heel, and it is sewed on, not nailed. A new heel, built of whole lifts of this same unequalled stock, is attached. All edges are carefully levelled and finished, just as they are in the Regal factories.

When you get your shoes back they are just as comfortable and practically as stylish and serviceable as when you first bought them. And it does not cost a lot, either—no more than any first-class cobbler would charge.

The next time you want your shoes repaired bring them to this store. Tell our salesman you want them repaired the "Regal Way."

LINK AND M'CARTHY CLASH HOT AND HEAVY IN PRECINCT MEETING

Harmony was split open with a loud noise last night at a Democratic precinct meeting, when Col. C. J. McCarthy and L. L. McCandless gave the assembled voters very different versions of the story of how McCarthy came to quit the McCandless fold and come out for Delegate himself.

It was during the meeting of the eleventh precinct club of the Fifth District, held last night at the home of George Holt, on Asylum road, that the two Democratic leaders loosened up.

McCarthy, while making a speech before a good-sized crowd of Democrats, said that he opposed McCandless because the latter did not fulfil a promise, which he made after a three-hour conference, to move a reconsideration of the double convention plan.

McCandless arose from his seat instantly and attempted to correct the speaker. McCarthy, still on the floor, then turned angry eyes on McCandless. McCandless said that he did not understand the conversation they had, the way McCarthy understood.

"Did you not tell me that you would make a motion to have a separate convention for the nomination of candidates for Delegate to Congress?" asked McCarthy.

"No, sir," answered McCandless. "I did not understand the thing the same as you did. I understood the matter differently." He then proceeded to tell the story, but McCarthy refused to listen.

"If you insist that you are right, then I am prepared to continue the fight for the nomination," ended McCarthy.

During the early part of the meeting Mayor Fern and Link McCandless advocated peace and harmony in the party. So far the meeting was good, but when McCarthy took the floor and was interrupted by McCandless, signs of disorder were in evidence.

The other speakers of the night were G. K. Keeney, secretary of the Democratic Territorial convention, and D. Kamahu, one of the warhorses of the party. Kamahu is a police sergeant under Sheriff Jarrett, who was not present at the meeting.

Colonel McCarthy this morning said that one effect of the fight has been to stir up much interest in the precinct meetings.

"GREATER HILO" PLANS TAKING SHAPE; GOVERNOR IN CONFERENCE

Final details in connection with the laying out of the land between the Hilo waterfront and the city, which will be the area that "Greater Hilo" will extend over, are nearly complete. This morning the Governor held a long conference with L. A. Thurston, representing the Hilo railroad, Superintendent of Public Works Marston Campbell, Surveyor Wall and Secretary E. A. Mott-Smith, and the plans are to be sent to Hilo for further consideration.

The waterfront will be laid out with a view to providing the best facilities for shipping. Behind this a section will be for warehouses and the various business interests, while behind this will be the residence lots. The Hilo Railroad Company is to be given right-of-way to the Hilo wharf and also in the vicinity of the new wharf the company will be allowed sufficient room to operate rolling stock.

Under a former plan that was prepared and details of which were told in the Bulletin exclusively at the time, the area proposed to be given the railroad company for the yard enclosed the entrance to the wharf and would have meant that any other carrying concern would have to get a right-of-way from the railroad. The present plan provides for the yard being out of the way altogether and not interfering with the entrance to the wharf at all.

Campbell, who leaves on the steamer Wilhelm for Hilo to attend a meeting of the Loan Fund Commission there, will in all probability take the matter up with some of the Hilo people.

ney test." The literacy test seems to be the principal point of the Burnett bill, and no information has been given to the effect that Hawaii is to be favored by an exemption clause.

Members of the Territorial Board of Immigration have not heard of this bill. Inasmuch as the Dillingham bill was the result of long research by a capable commission, it may be given the preference over the Burnett bill. Not much uneasiness has been caused by the latter, but so far its existence has hardly been known here.

DEMOCRATS PLAYING POLITICS

Democrats to the extent of favoring free sugar.

This proposition has been laid before the House Democrats by the Senate Progressives. Instead of free sugar a duty of 1.20 shall be levied. That is, outside the 20 per cent. preferential allowed imports from Cuba, it is desired to have a straight rate of 1 cent per pound. The Progressives will assist in passing such a measure through the Senate. They will go little, if any, below that figure.

Bristow's Position.
During the last session of Congress Senator Bristow, recognized as the sugar expert of the Progressives, advocated the abolition of the Dutch standard and a removal of the differential in favor of refined sugars. He estimated that this was equivalent to a reduction of 15 per cent. in the duty on sugar. He did not care to go much beyond that point, as the beet sugar industry in Kansas is growing and his constituents would not take kindly to a heavier cut. Mr. Bristow acts on the assumption that the net duty on sugar under the Payne-Aldrich act is about 1.35 and a 15 per cent. reduction would bring it down to 1.20.

The dickering between the Progressives of the Senate and the Democrats of the House is to ascertain if an amendment is added to the free sugar bill, arranging the rate as indicated, it will be accepted on its return. No intimation has yet been given by the leaders of the House as to whether or not the suggestion will be made the basis for a general downward revision of the tariff.

The beet sugar interests, through their chief representatives, have filed an emphatic protest with the House ways and means committee against the bill providing for free sugar. It is declared that the entire removal of protection will ruin the industry in this country and within a few years wipe it out of existence. Facts and arguments are advanced to demonstrate that the beet sugar business is daily becoming more important, but that a condition has not yet been reached where competition can be maintained with free sugar.

No attention whatever will be given the protest. Representations of similar import were made while the sugar problem was under consideration and did not have the slightest effect in controlling the action of the ways and means committee. Free sugar was favored despite the warnings of beet sugar producers in all sections of the United States.

The Senate committee on the Pacific Islands and Porto Rico has settled down to work with the return of Senator Lorimer, chairman of the committee. The first matter of importance to Hawaii taken up was the bill already passed by the House granting permission from John T. McCrosson and associates to construct an irrigation ditch.

The Senate committee gave a hearing on the bill. Mr. McCrosson appeared and explained in detail the purposes and beneficial character of his plan.

Several minor amendments were suggested. It is believed these will be added to the bill and a favorable report made in the near future.

DR. MCCOY EXPECTED BACK NEXT SATURDAY MORNING

Dr. G. W. McCoy is expected to arrive back from Hawaii on Saturday morning, having completed the investigations that he went to make. This brief announcement was received by President Pratt of the Board of Health this morning and he expects to hear further details by mail.

The man who had plague, and whose case Dr. McCoy went to look into, is dead.

The United States lighthouse tender, Kukui, was dispatched on a cruise to island points this morning. The vessel may be away a fortnight in making calls at several lighthouse stations.

There was a dull, aching pain across the small of my back which kept me in misery all of the time. I was very thin and poor and had no color at all. I had but little strength. My people were alarmed at my condition. The doctors' medicine did not seem to give me any strength. I was certainly discouraged until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They seemed to be the turning point in my health. For I have been well and strong since. After taking a box and a half I could see improvement. I took the pills about two months altogether.
